highway as it passes Island Lake. The strong waters from Glacier Creek hit the track broadside washing away its supports. While the track was being repaired westbound trains remained at Coleman and east-bound at Crows Nest.

Wreck Claims Three Lives

—Railway Accident West Of Lundbreck

Rock Creek's Flood Waters Washed Away Track Support; Track Collapsed Plunging Freight In Creek

Cloudburst Thought To Have Been Responsible For Heavy And Sudden Flow; Track Had Been Inspected Four Hours Previously

Traveling along the C.P.R. track in pitch blackness three miles west of Lundbreck, unaware that a washed-out bridge lay immediately ahead, a freight train ploughed into Rock Creek, ten box cars piling on top of the engine and carrying three of the freight's crew to death. The accident happened at 12:55 this morning and the freight was running a short time ahead of the regular passenger train which is scheduled to arrive in Coleman at 2 a.m.

Railway authorities and RCMP officials were immediately notified and a call sent for the Coleman ambulance. Supt. A. S. Lamb arrived at the wreck as quickly as possible and the work gang is under Roadmaster A. Montalbetti. RCMP guard either side of the wreck and keep the curious at a respectable distance.

Due to the box cars piling up on the engine which rests in the creek bed the rescue crew had been unable to get at the bodies. It was expected that the victims could be released shortly after noon today. Their names will be released officially from the Lethbridge CPR office.

Forest Ranger Irvin Frew was called in to help determine just what had happened. An inspection had been made of the track at 9 p.m., four hours before the accident, and the track had been found in a normal condition.

The belief has been expressed that a cloudburst might have fallen some distance north of the wreck and the onrushing water might have washed out small culverts and bridges in its path.

Evidence at the wreck shows that the water had backed up in the culvert running beneath the track as the water mark runs approximately fifty yards west of the creek bed and had actually run over the track, washing away the supporting gravel and rock.

The rails appear to have been left suspended with no support and the heavy locomotive had buckled and broken them, causing the engine to plunge into the stream.

The bodies will be brought to Blaimore.

A large work crew is dumping tons of gravel on either side of the track at the east end of the wreck in order to permit the large crane to come alongside the wreck and lift away the debris.

Express for the Pass towns was put off at Lundbreck and trucks are transporting it to the various points.

Trees south of the track had the bark rubbed off them to a height of six feet or more by the flood waters.

BLAIRMORE ORGANIZES BOARD OF TRADE TO-NIGHT

To-night at 8 o'clock the businessmen, professional men and aggressive citizens interested in the welfare of Blaimore and the Crows Nest Pass generally will meet to re-organize the Blaimore Board of Trade.

A number of the members of the Coleman Board of Trade have been invited to visit the Blaimore Board and a number will be on hand.

Coleman members desiring to take in the Blaimore function should meet at The Journal office at 7:45.

Lundbreck Youth Drowned Sunday Noon

George "Bud" Dennis, fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Dennis, of Lundbreck, drowned in the high waters of the North Forks river Sunday noon while he and his elder brother endeavored to lead their horses across the flood swollen water.

The two brothers on Saturday had taken some cattle across the river, some 20 miles north of Lundbreck, when the water was relatively low. On their return Sunday at noon the heavy rain of Saturday plus the heavy snow run-off had turned the river into a raging torrent. The two youths endeavored to lead their horses across the river and it was at this point when George was swept off his feet. The brother managed to hang onto a tree and pull himself to safety. The body of George was found nine miles down the stream lodged against an Island.

MINER DIED IN MINE

Karol Lisinsky, thought to be 50 years, was found dead in a chute in McGillivray Creek mine last Thursday when his non-appearance at the pit-bottom when the miners were ready to leave for the surface caused a search for him.

He was found in the chute in a sitting position. A post-mortem the following day revealed that he had suffered heart failure. As a result of the doctor's findings Coroner Fred Antrobus ruled that an inquest was not necessary. Mrs. Lisinsky only left Coleman a month ago for Poland where she is visiting relatives. Little is known about deceased other than the fact that he came from Winnipeg where he had been a baker.

TRAPPED

Dr. and Mrs. Aiello and baby who motored to Fernie at the week-end to visit the former's parents were trapped by swiftly rising flood waters and were forced to remain in the B.C. city longer than anticipated.

Also marooned in Fernie were Mr. and Mrs. Nich Nicholas enroute home from a visit made to the west coast. Nick phoned family members of his plight Tuesday noon.

This and That

Cameron school janitor John Wayrean tried valiantly to keep pace with the flood waters seeping into the school basement. All day Monday he operated a pump to no avail. On Tuesday the students gave him a hand but still the water continued to seep into the basement. It is understood 8 inches of water covers the floor.

The entire work gang in the town's employ were at work cleaning the streets on Tuesday. The rampaging Ne Perce Creek had torn deep ditches alongside concrete sidewalks & brought large boulders along with it. The grader, pulled by the town truck, was endeavoring to fill the holes as best it could. Other workmen were using the second town truck to take away surplus dirt and gravel.

The C.P.R. passenger trains are getting as far as Crows Nest due to track wash-outs at Michel and again at Fernie. Returning from Crows Nest they are known under a different number and pick up passengers enroute east.

The passenger train reaching Coleman at 2 a.m. Sunday was forced to remain here practically all Sunday due to the track damage at Crows Nest. Once that had been repaired it got as far as Michel where a wash-out again stalled it. It returned to Coleman Monday afternoon at 2:20 enroute to Macleod, Calgary, Golden and thence to Cranbrook where it would set out for Nelson. Its baggage and mail load was still intact as it returned to Coleman.

The Greyhound buses are reaching as far west as Michel where they are turning around and heading east. A wash-out of No. 3 highway makes it impossible to go farther.

Eye-witnesses at Michel-Natal state that Cats had been used to haul onto higher land all small homes which appeared likely to be swept off their foundations and into the swirling river waters where they might possibly have caused greater damage by plugging bridges and culverts and causing water to back-up on other property.

C. P. R. Track And Highway Bridges Washed Out As Rivers Go On Rampage

Rain, falling steadily from approximately 10 o'clock Friday evening and all day Saturday, caused creeks and rivers to rise steadily until flood conditions had almost been reached. Throughout the town flood damage was caused but no real serious damage was reported due to the river and creek beds being able to handle practically the bulk of water.

Blaimore appeared to suffer most, three small bridges being washed out as well as one road leading to the cemetery. The bridge leading to West Canadian Collieries was blasted Sunday. The debris from these three bridges swept down the river and jammed beneath the steel bridge located across the Crows Nest river as one enters Frank. Here it jammed so tightly that one could walk on top of it. It was proposed to blast the debris in order to free the bridge from possible damage.

A youth fell into Crows Nest River at Lundbreck and his body was carried nine miles down stream before it was caught and brought to shore thus giving one an idea how swollen the river had become.

RAIL WASHOUT

Nez Perce Creek became a raging torrent late Saturday afternoon as heavy rains augmented by melting snow caused it to rise hour by hour. At the C.P.R. culvert as one enters East Coleman the creek ate at the base of the culvert weakening considerably. A work gang was rushed to the scene with heavy rock from the Frank Slide. It required several hours before the track was sufficiently strong to permit heavy traffic.

In the meantime a report was received that track midway between Summit, Lime Works and Island Lake was being washed out as Glacier Creek started to hit it broadside with hundreds of tons of fiercely running water, augmented by water overflowing from Island Lake. By the time the East Coleman Culvert was repaired it was too late to save the track at Summit Lime Works and when the work gang got there it was found necessary to stop all C.P.R. traffic on either side of the wash-out. The westbound passenger remained in Coleman the greater part of Sunday while the east-bound remained at Crows Nest. Two work crews were put to work repairing the damage. The picture reproduced above, gives one an idea of how the fiercely flowing water sped beneath the track.

NEZ PERCE

Nez Perce creek probably did the most damage as it went on the rampage for several hours before it was brought under control.

The water Saturday evening started to eat away the north east corner of the tennis court. As it increased in size it also increased in fury. At nine thirty it started to pour through the tennis courts and down Central

Cancer Drive Reached $1346.50

Coleman's 1948 Cancer drive is now history and the magnificent total of $1346.50 was subscribed by local citizens. Campaign chairman John McDonald sent this amount to provincial headquarters on Tuesday morning.

Last year the drive netted $1195 and only last week the campaign committee expected to do just slightly better than $1200. The nice total of $1346.50 came as a pleasant and unexpected surprise.

Wm. "Bill" Johnson, Pass manager of Plunkett & Savage, attended a Fruit Growers' convention at Creston at the weekend. It is understood that he too had been unable to get back home due to washed-out road conditions.

Polish Society Celebrated Thirtieth Anniversary With Speeches, Banquet And Dance

J. Liss, Polish Society Organizer, Principal Speaker; Mayor Frank Aboussafy Extended Congratulations On Behalf Of Town.

The granting of its provincial charter thirty years ago was celebrated in grand style Saturday evening by the Coleman Polish Society of Brotherly Aid. A banquet, program and dance featured the anniversary and dignitaries from Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge as well as a number of local citizens were present to extend congratulations.

J. Liss, organizer of the Polish Society of Brotherly Aid and who actually organized the Coleman branch thirty years ago, was the principal speaker. He reviewed the history of the Polish settlers in Canada during the early years of the twentieth century, how the Poles themselves had been unorganized and therefore unable to make a concerted attempt to keep alive Polish culture. He dealt with the Homeland, the hordes of foreigners which had conquered and partitioned it and how the Poles were treated as friend or enemy in their own homeland depending on what area they resided and by whom it was administered.

Thirty years ago sufficient Poles had settled in Coleman to make it possible to organize a Polish Society of Brotherly Aid.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

A Letter For Mrs. Smith

By ADDISON H. HALLOCK

BILL lay in bed watching the miracle of a new day being born. Tomorrow, he thought, will be Anne's birthday. . . and he would have nothing to give her. He turned away from the window and looked at his wife. How young she looked! And she would be forty tomorrow. Unbelievable!

Anne opened her eyes and smiled. Bill kissed her. "Sweet," she said. "Looks like we're going to have a nice day." Bill said:

"Mum, Anne murmured, 'I'm glad. Wish you didn't have to go to the office.'"

"Me too," said Bill, "I'd just like to lie here all day and look at you." "Sweet," Anne said again. She turned to face Bill. "Oh, dear," she sighed, "I just remembered. Tomorrow's . . ."

"Yes, I know . . . your birthday. And I haven't one darn thing to . . ."

"Look, Bill," Anne interrupted hastily, "let's forget this one thing. 'Forget your birthday? Have I ever?'"

"No, honey . . . but when a girl is . . . well, fortieth birthdays should be skipped."

"You look like sixteen." Anne giggled. "Oh, Bill . . . I look like an old hag, and you know it." The alarm broke in on them and Bill got up to shut it off.

Five years ago Bill had gone berserk. Wanting his wife to have the nice things other girls had, he had gone on a spending spree. He had surprised Anne with a new radio, a fur coat. He had given her all sorts of extra money to spend on clothes. When asked where all this sudden wealth was coming from, Bill had said, "Don't you worry. It's a secret. Sometime I'll tell you about it."

"All these things are lovely, Bill," Anne had said, "and you know I appreciate them . . . but shouldn't we be saving something?"

"Listen, honey," Bill had answered gruffly, "you deserve a break, and at last you're getting one. I love giving you things, isn't that enough?"

Bill's lavish spending had continued for more than a year. Then, one day, Anne was mending the coat of one of Bill's suits, when an overdue notice from a local loan company had fallen from a pocket. When Bill came home, she showed him the notice. At first he denied any knowledge of it. But Anne pointed out that his name was on it and kept asking questions in a frightened voice until Bill finally exploded. "All right, all right," he roared, "it's mine. Where did you think the money was coming from, anyway?"

Anne stood transfixed, watching Bill get into his hat and coat. She said nothing, felt nothing.

Just in case you're interested, Mrs. Smith," Bill said icily, "I'm in debt . . . more than five thousand dollars in debt!" The door slammed as Bill went out, leaving Anne standing there.

This had been the closest Bill and Anne had ever come to a separation. Sometime after midnight Anne had heard the bedroom door open softly. Bill had knelt by the bed and held her hand, asking her forgiveness. "To think I could hurt anyone I love so much!" He had confessed everything.

They had planned the sacrifice they would make to repay the money over the years, until strikes in the sky heralded a new day. Bill had promised never to borrow again. "If we get in a jam," he had said, "I'll tell you. From now on we'll share our troubles as well as our pleasures . . . all of them."

It had been tough going. They had been dunned mercilessly. Many of their acquaintances had dropped them. Bill had lost his job but, when Anne expressed her faith in him, he took another one in the same town although the salary was lower. But Bill had scrimped and saved. But Bill had kept his promise . . . he had never borrowed again.

Bill was remembering all this as he walked home from work the next evening. He was remembering how swell Anne had been through it all. "It's a wonder she didn't kick me out of my mind."

Climbing the hill slowly he became gloomier and gloomier. "Anne's birthday," he growled, "and not a thing. Always before I've had at least a buck in my pocket." He could see the lights shining through the living room windows of the little house they had rented. "Those loan sharks! If I hadn't had to pay out all that dough just at this particular time!"

Anne was waiting for Bill in the hallway when he opened the front door. Anne, looking sweet in a dress six years old. Anne, smiling. Anne, rushing into his arms.

"Honey," Bill said, "Hap—" "Don't say it! Don't you remember? We're skipping this one."

Bill held her away from him a moment. "Gee, was I out of my mind? Then he drew her to him again, and kissed her.

Anne helped Bill out of his coat, took his hat. "Oh, I almost forgot," she said, going to the closet, "there's a letter."

Bill looked down and picked up a letter lying on the little table in the hall. He glanced at the return address. "Wait! They ever stop dunning us?" he asked in a discouraged voice.

"Oh, let the letter go until after dinner," Anne said.

"Business before pleasure!" Bill ripped open the envelope and quickly drew out the large white sheet.

"Dear Mr. Smith," he began to read sarcastically. "This is to inform you that, in accordance with our records . . ."

Bill paused a moment. Then he began to read again, his expression changing. " . . . the money you borrowed from us has been repaid in full, and your cancelled note is attached hereto. Due to an error on our part, we find that you have been overcharged on this account, and a check, drawn in your name, in the amount of $76.72 is here in our office. If you will call at our earliest convenience, we will . . ."

The letter slipped from Bill's lifeless fingers to the floor.

"Honey," Anne said, "Oh, Honey!" Bill, holding Anne close, was glad that she couldn't see the dampness around his eyes.

"Our last debt," Anne murmured against Bill's chest, "You've paid our last debt . . . oh, Bill!"

Bill kissed the tip of Anne's left ear. "Happy Birthday, Sweetheart," he said.

U.S. To Build Huge Hangar In Alaska

OAKLAND, Calif. — The U.S. air force is building in Alaska what is believed to be the world's largest airplane hangar.

This was disclosed in an announcement by Judson Pacific-Murphy corporation that it has completed 80 per cent. of the pre-fabricated steel framework for the project.

The hangar will be at a point known as Mile 26 north of Fairbanks. Its dimensions: 300 feet long, 300 feet wide, 80 feet high. Sliding doors will open to a width of 200 feet. This exceeds the wing span of any plane now in service.

The framework, using 3,000 tons of steel, will cost $750,000 alone. It will be delivered to Alaska by rail and army transport.

STRAWBERRIES WILL COST MORE THIS YEAR

Plan Tests In Rain-Making

MEDICINE HAT, Alta.—Two federal government agencies—the National Research council and the meteorological branch of the department of transport—are going into the rain-making business. Dry ice, and other incandulants will be used to stimulate rainfall.

The experiments, conducted by the R.C.A.F. under the supervision of agencies, will centre in the Medicine Hat area with the operations base at the Suffield station of the department of national defence.

Confirmation of the plans, first mentioned several months ago without any specific location, has been received by T. R. Osborne, president of the Medicine Hat chamber of commerce, from Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, president of the National Research council and Andrew Thomson, controller of meteorological services.

It is the first time in western Canada, and possibly the whole Dominion, that official experiments will have been made.

Last year in Regina Don Johnston developed a machine which he called the "Universecoper". The machine allegedly set up an electromagnetic field, drawing electrical power from the moon and so effected condensation of moisture in the clouds. Witnesses testified at the time that rain fell.

Another Saskatchewan "rain-maker", identified only as Hatfield, was supposed to have done "nicely" in the early 30's by charging so much an inch.

Mr. Osborne says that rain-making "may prove the end of the rainbow for our section of the prairies."

Olga Sagoff Died At Rochester Friday

Death Came Few Minutes
Before Scheduled Operation;
Funeral Held Wednesday Afternoon.

OLGA SAGOFF

Olga Sagoff, 19 years next month, passed away in a Rochester hospital last Friday morning just a few minutes before she was to be operated upon. Nearby was her mother and enroute to her side, traveling by plane and train, was her father who arrived too late. She was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sagoff.

Mr. and Mrs. Sagoff and Olga had visited Rochester last January for two weeks during which Olga was given medical examinations. Again on April 30 the three left for Rochester where Olga was to undergo a serious operation. Hospital accommodation was scarce and Mr. Sagoff returned home within the week to supervise his business interests here.

Hospital congestion cleared somewhat and Olga's operation schedule was brought forward from May 24 to May 21. A message was sent to Mr. Sagoff to come to Rochester immediately by Mrs. Sagoff.

Comforted by the surgeons that everything would be all right Olga bade her mother good-bye for the moment and went into the operating room. Death came as she lay on the table minutes before the doctors were ready to operate.

Mr. Sagoff arrived too late to reach his daughter having been hindered by lagging plane schedules.

The body was brought to Coleman on Monday's afternoon train.

Born in Coleman Olga attended local public and high schools. During the past year or two she had attended to her father's bookkeeping. She had been very popular and while sickly for years had bravely tried to keep step with her girl friends.

The funeral was held from the Family Residence at 4 p.m. Wednesday, services being conducted in Holy Ghost church by Rev. Father Leo Sullivan. Mass was held at 8:30 Wednesday morning. Interment was made in Coleman Catholic cemetery.

Palbearers included Fred Joseph, Tom Kuran, Roy Johnson, Bruno Rinaldi, Wm. Anderson and John Mayerchuk, all of whom were former classmates of Olga's.

Harry Cocciolone Died Sunday Evening

Came to Coleman in 1907
And Death Severs Another
Link With Coleman's Past;
Funeral This afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Another link with Coleman's past was broken at 7:30 Sunday evening in the Miner's hospital when Enrico (Harry) Cocciolone 75, passed away following an illness of six months. He had been in hospital six weeks.

Born at St. Gregory, Italy, he grew up in his native land and in 1901, in company with his brother Joe, came to the United States, settling in Montana. In 1902 they moved to Fernie, B.C., and five years later arrived in Coleman. He gained employment with International Coal & Coke and was in that company's employ for forty years, ten of which were spent on the coke ovens.

He had been married twice, his first wife dying in Coleman about ten years ago. Six years ago he married Miss Mary Tortorelli, of Montreal, and she is his only survivor.

He had been a member of the Italian Society and many years ago had been a member of the Elks lodge. The Italian Society are in charge of funeral arrangements. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, services being conducted at Holy Ghost church with interment taking place in Coleman Catholic cemetery.

Polish Society

The Society had been granted its provincial charter and had continued to prosper year after year until to-day, still aggressive, it celebrated its thirtieth anniversary. He stated it was with pride and honor that he extended his good wishes for many more anniversaries of the Coleman Society.

Mayor Frank Abousafy extended the congratulations of the town to the Polish Society on attaining its thirtieth anniversary. He also congratulated those organizers of the Society who had shown imagination, initiative and aggressiveness. He called upon the young people to use their initiative as Canada belongs to its youth. Canada grew richer as other lands brought to it their own individual cultures. He expressed his belief that Canada some day would become the greatest country the world had ever known.

J. J. McIntyre extended good wishes to the Society's members on attaining their thirtieth anniversary. He described the gathering as typically Canadian. Canada as a nation had no Canadian race. First we had the Indians, then the French, British, Dutch, German, Polish and all European countries. He concluded with the thought that Canada to become great had to receive the best that all of us could give her.

Other speakers included Wm. J. White who voiced thanks to the members for their invitation to their function and to the ladies who had waded ankle deep in water in the basement of the hall in order to cater to the function, and A. Baloch who spoke briefly.

Artists on the program were the Polish choir, conducted by Jim Cousins, S. Kish, J. Kryczka Jr., Miss J. Lesniak, T. Klimmer, K. Lesniak, Clare Chukla and Mary Kucklyn.

Attending from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. J. Liss, of Sanguo, Alta., the former being organizer of the Polish Society of Brotherly Aid. Representing the Polish Veterans Association, Edmonton, were F. Hauptman, J. Kaiser, A. Kresz. Representing the Polish Alliance, Calgary, were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chukla, former Colemanites, F. Hycisk, K. Hyciek. The Polish Veterans Association Group No. 19, Lethbridge, was represented by A. Falks, R. Rojsk and B. Brysiuk.

Unable to be present were W. J. Grocholski, president of the Canadian Polish Congress, who had to visit Buffalo to attend the Polish Congress convention and Rev. Father E. Malak, of Edmonton who had to attend on May 23 the anniversary of the battle of Monte Casino. They sent wires of congratulations. Congratulations were also received from the Polish Combantants Association of Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Blain and family, of Kimberley, were the weekend guests of Mrs. Blain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nash.

What this new "Security Plan" will do for him

The Mutual Life of Canada's "Security Plan" enables you to start your child's insurance at a very early age, and at a low cost.

Protection starts at $100 at birth, increasing annually to $1,000, at age 9 and grading up to $5,000, at age 20. If money is required for educational purposes when the child reaches university age, the policy may be surrendered for its cash value, otherwise it may be continued at the very low premium rates until age 60 or 65 when a retirement income is available. The Cash Value increases yearly, and dividends are paid annually as declared.

CANADA Belongs To Its YOUTH

THE YOUNG MAN who believes the world owes him a living is a badly disillusioned youth who is destined to end up on the bread line.

CANADA IS A VAST undeveloped country, destined to be the world's greatest, whose future lies in the hands of its aggressive and educated Youth.

CANADIAN YOUTH must prepare for their place in Canada's industrial development through education.

CANADA'S INDUSTRIAL ECONOMY depends heavily on coal production and will become more dependent on coal as the nation's industrial power increases.

THE COAL INDUSTRY needs trained men, young men to replace elderly miners who plan retirement. It requires trained men to operate the coal mines as firebosses, pit bosses, superintendents general managers.

George P. Kuran, of St. Louis, Addressed Board of Trade

Lethbridge's Ernie McFarland Unable To Attend Board's Supper Last Friday.

A disappointingly small attendance faced president Percy Dickenson last Thursday evening at a regular Board of Trade supper-meeting. Part of the cause was due to the fact that the meeting clashed with other town functions.

Ernie McFarland, president of Lethbridge Chamber of Commerce, who had been scheduled to address the meeting was unable to attend owing to business matters at home and sent his regrets.

By good fortune Mr. George P. Kuran, of St. Louis, an expert on the carbonization of coal and who was in Coleman on business, was present and was prevailed upon by President Dickenson to give a brief address on the by-products of coke. His address on this highly technical subject was quite interesting and a number of questions were asked following his address.

River On Rampage

avenue carrying large boulders with it and cutting deeply into the earth alongside the concrete sidewalks.

Sam Sagoff's 'cat' was brought into play and cut a sharp corner off the creek to make a heavy bank along the creek as it ran past the rear of the Kinnear-Hillary block. The culvert at De-Ceco's was barely able to take the heavy flow and the water was splashing the top of the culvert. Next morning (Sunday) the 'cat' was used to deepen the creek bed between the bridge near the tennis courts right down to the culvert.

McGILLIVRAY CREEK

Like its brother, Nez Perce, McGillivray Creek was acting up. In order to relieve pressure some of the creek was diverted into its former bed in west Coleman. However the water which sped straight past the McGillivray tippie and into Crows Nest river ate practically half of the roadway away that led from West Coleman's Second street into the tippie. Bars were placed around the tippie bridge to prevent accident. Unabated the water tore into the supports of the concrete culvert leading to Willow Drive. Here again it ate away a healthy chunk of the creek and gravel around the culvert. To add to matters a tree lodged itself firmly in the entrance of the culvert.

NO. 3 HIGHWAY BRIDGES

The small bridges on No. 3 highway from Coleman to the B.C.-Alberta border were in dangerous condition. Red flags were placed at them all with flares set up at night.

The bridge at Pelletier's creek east of town was in very dangerous condition. The supports on the south side had been swept away and only three braces kept it level.

West of W. Godfrey's ranch a bridge was starting to lose the soil and gravel which formed a portion of it and cars had to pass on one half only.

3 heavy "waterfalls" swept over the mountain ridge at Crows Nest lake and splashed onto the highway. Heavy rocks were also falling on to the highway, being loosened by water soaked earth.

Glacier Creek's steel bridge was holding on to its rocky base but the soft soil and earth around it was being washed away by the heavy force of water.

The wooden bridge crossing Island Lake west of Crows Nest Lake would have floated had it not been tied down. The water was licking the floor of the bridge. However it was in no danger of any real damage.

WILLOW DRIVE

The heavily swollen Crows Nest River swept through parts of low lying land in Willow Drive, flooding basements and yards. Only the lowering of water would bring relief.

Again in Grafton town residents were being tormented with flooding basements by wildcat streams which swept off the hills, through yards, into basements and out again as they made their way to Crows Nest River.

Only at the east end of East Coleman was heavy water experienced in any degree among the residents. The water from Crows Nest River was spilling over into a slough which continued to grow until it swept into some of the residential area.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Belevich To Vancouver

Came to Coleman in 1912; Will Enjoy Remaining Years On West Coast.

Coleman is about to lose two more of its oldtimers to the west coast. This time it is Mr. and Mrs. Anton Belevich, of Second street, who have decided to leave the old home town and reside alongside the waters of the blue Pacific in the west coast metropolis of Vancouver.

It was in 1912 that Mr. and Mrs. Belevich came from Lithuania to Cleveland, Ohio. He worked there for six months before leaving for Canada where he has made his home up to the present. He first gained employment with International in 1912 and worked in its employ until 1919. That year he entered the employ of McGillivray and worked for the company until 1929 when he again returned to International and worked with that company until a week or two ago when he quit mining altogether.

They have sold their beautiful home to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods, who have come to reside in Coleman from Edmonton. Up to Tuesday afternoon they had been unsuccessful in securing a C.P.E. box car to transport their furniture to the west coast.

Mr. Belevich stated that Mrs. Belevich's health has been quite poorly and he anticipated the change in altitude might do her good. He intends having a good holiday before looking for a job in Vancouver.

His son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Algard Grinkus, formerly of Coleman and who went to Vancouver during the war years, appear to have made good and enjoy life in the city. Mr. Grinkus is employed in a city garage as a salesman. Mr. and Mrs. Belevich's Vancouver address will be 855 West 8th Ave.

Their many friends here wish them many years of health and happiness in their new home. They in turn will keep in touch with Coleman activities, having arranged to have The Journal sent out to them each week.

Coleman Won Cowley Baseball Tournament

Coleman Cubs swamped Pincher Creek High school 24-3 in the finals of the May 24 baseball tournament held at Cowley. This match was called at the end of the fifth inning as the Pincher Creekers felt they hadn't a ghost of a chance of overcoming the overwhelming Coleman lead.

The Coleman team had 13 closest competition from Hillcrest and Blairmore, which they eliminated by respective 3-2 and 3-1 scores. These two matches were the thrillers of the tournament and provided pitchers' duels and almost errorless baseball.

By virtue of their close victories over Hillcrest and Blairmore, the Cubs were the favorites in the finals — and they came through in convincing style.

The Dangers Of Soil Erosion

A PROBLEM WHICH HAS ALREADY received considerable attention in Western Canada, but which remains a serious one not only here, but throughout the entire world, is that of soil erosion. The loss of top soil through the action of the weather, poor methods of farming and other causes, has already cost this country a great deal, but in spite of this we are more fortunate than are the people in some other parts of the world. In a recent address on this subject, Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the United States government soil conservation service, stated that the people on this continent, and throughout the world, will literally starve to death within the next one hundred years unless more care is taken to prevent soil erosion.

Shortages In Some Places

At the present time, Dr. Bennett said, there are about 4,000,000,000 acres of land suitable for farming in the entire world. It has been found by experts in nutrition that three acres of land are required to provide one person's needs for a "minimum nutritional diet". The population of the world is at present a little over 2,000,000,000, which allows an overall average of two acres per person now. What the situation will be one hundred years from now, if the population increases at the present rate of one per cent. per year, and the arable land continues to decrease through erosion, is alarming to contemplate. Should no land be lost, Dr. Bennett calculated that there would be only one acre of farm land per person, but if top soil continues to be lost at the present rate, the ration would be considerably smaller.

Constant Need For Vigilance

In Japan there is now only one quarter of an acre of arable land per person, in China one half an acre and in India one third of an acre for each person. At present the situation on this continent is less serious than in Asia. However, there is reason for concern. Originally the top soil in America was nine inches deep, now it is only six, Dr. Bennett said, and the crop land which is left is almost all subject to "erosion, flood and windstorm". In combating this situation, which could result in a considerable reduction of food production on this continent, the American soils expert stressed the need for "comprehensive crop and soil conservation measures, contour cultivation, drainage of low lands, planting of grass on steep land, irrigation and other modern methods of preventative conservation." In Western Canada an extensive program of soil conservation has been under way for some time, but farmers should be constantly aware for the need for continued vigilance in this important work.

$100,000,000 To Maintain Work

OTTAWA.—Although the federal government isn't bargaining for a depression, a special branch has plans for about $100,000,000 worth of public projects ready to maintain employment—just in case—it was learned.

The department of government concerned is the Public Projects branch of the Trade and Commerce ministry, headed by G. D. Mallory, whose appointment as acting co-ordinator was announced by Trade Minister Howe.

The big public projects scheme will not be used until normal business methods of heading off a depression appear hopeless, an official of the branch said. It is strictly a "stop gap" to keep employment high, he said, and will not be used until the situation appears to be getting critical.

There is no suggestion that a depression is on the way, it was pointed out. In fact, economists said that Canada seems headed for continued prosperity although there might be a business "recession" as time goes on. But if the rest of the world has economic troubles, Canada will be ensnared. It's with this thought in mind that the huge public works program is being developed.

Although detailed plans for about $100,000,000 are on hand at present, it was pointed out that a figure about 10 times this amount could be called into use in the event all provinces and municipalities co-operate with the federal government.

Meanwhile, the government is going ahead with its plans for encouraging private industry to expand and develop—to create new prosperity and hold present levels. This is serving a double purpose—to conserve U.S. dollar supplies, as well as to encourage the normal development of new business in this country, it was stated.

Pigeons In Los Angeles Smart

LOS ANGELES.—For a while W. H. Smith thought Los Angeles had the craziest pigeons he ever saw. Now, the visitor from Chicago is convinced they're pretty smart.

Smith left his hotel, went around the corner and bought some handkerchiefs. As he started across the street two pigeons started following him. They kept at his heels like hard dogs. If he stopped, they did too.

Smith reached an intersection, was halted by traffic. The pigeons circled him several times, looking up at him. People began to laugh. Smith felt absurd. He returned to his hotel. There, a bellhop explained everything.

People are forever feeding pigeons in squares near the hotel. Smith had his handkerchiefs in a little paper sack. The pigeons thought he was carrying popcorn or peanuts.

WOMAN FLIER WANTS TO SET WORLD RECORD
VENTURA, Cal. — Mrs. Dianne Converse Cyrus, 25-year-old widow of an army bomber pilot, said she would attempt to set a round-the-world solo flight record for women this summer.

Mrs. Cyrus said she would circle the globe from Los Angeles via New York, Paris, Cairo and Tokyo in the hope of lowering the mark of 73 hours, five minutes, and 11 seconds set by William P. Odom. No woman has ever flown solo around the world.

The diminutive flier holds the women's record between New York and Los Angeles. She has been working as co-pilot on an air freight line.

Offers Two Camels For Just One Girl

MONTREAL.—Next to models, perhaps the most "glamorous" group of working girls in our modern world are air line hostesses—but don't rush into that profession, ladies, until you hear this:

Just recently an air lines hostess narrowly missed being traded for a couple of camels. The story comes from the Royal Dutch Airlines, the company that now is negotiating with the Canadian government for permission to fly into Montreal Airport. It said that one of their aircraft was carrying a venerable sheik to Cairo when the attentiveness and looks of the hostess made quite a hit with the old Bedouin.

He was so taken, in fact, that when the aircraft landed he made the captain an offer—he'd trade two camels for possession of the girl. The captain, whose secret ambition was to ride a camel, was sorely tempted—but finally loyally to the company won over personal avarice and he regretfully turned down the deal.

The hostess is still flying but now gives venerable sheiks a wide berth.

Too much cannot be done towards guarding and guiding well the germinating and inclining thought of childhood.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Who feels injustices, who shrinks before a slight, who has a sense of wrong so acute, and so glowing a gratitude for kindness, as a general boy?—Thackeray.

You cannot teach a child to take care of himself unless you will let him try to take care of himself. He will make mistakes; an out of these mistakes will come his wisdom.—J. W. Beecher.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

"My wife heard I took you out to dinner the other night."
"Well, what does that make me?"
"That makes you my ex-secretary."

"My dear," said the fond mother earnestly, "I can't think why you can't get on with your husband. He's all right in his way."
"Yes, I know, mother," said her daughter. "But he's always in mine."

The batsman was given out with a doubtful decision.
"I am not out!" he protested, vigorously.
"Aren't you?" the umpire retorted. "Well, you have a look in tomorrow morning's paper and see."

A farmer was having difficulty filling out a government claim sheet for a cow that had been killed accidentally. He came to the last item: Disposition of the carcass? Fuzzling over this question for some time, he finally wrote: "Kind and gentle."

"I hear you're writing a book on 'How to Rear Your Baby.' Don't you find writing it an awful lot, with your own baby to look after?"
"Oh, no. Baby's at his grand-mother's so that I can get on with the book!"

Two fighting Irishmen were brought before a judge who said: "Why don't you two settle this case out of court?"
"Sure that's exactly what we were doing," said one, "and the police came along and interfered."

He: "Why do you weep and sniffle at a picture show over the imaginary woes of people you never met?"
She: "Same reason why you scream and yell when a man you don't know slides into second base."

Loses $75,000 Worth Of Gems Through Fake Phone Call

CLEVELAND.—A wholesale dealer in diamonds reported to police he had been tricked out of "at least $75,000" worth of gems by a telephone call.

Henry Blank, head of a Newark, N.J., firm said he left a jewel case and his topcoat at the Danford-Lowell Co. and went to lunch.

Later his partner, Felix B. Lowell, received the telephone call. The caller identified himself as Blank. He said he was sending a hotel porter to pick up the case of jewels because he had to catch a train.

"And don't forget my topcoat," said the caller.

Lowell complied. He said the voice sounded like Blank's, and the reference to the topcoat cleared up any misgivings he might have had.

Wheat Rust Victory Worth $60,000,000

Plant Pathologist Recalls Loss Of $100,000,000 In 1916 Through Wheat Rust

MONTREAL.—Canada, through the advancement of scientific agriculture, saved some $60,000,000 through the successful combatting of wheat stem rust, declared I. L. Connors, newly-elected president of the Quebec Society for the Protection of Plants, which held its annual meeting at Macdonald College here. He succeeds Fernand Gauthier.

Mr. Connors, who is associate plant pathologist, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, said that in 1916 the Dominion suffered a $100,000,000 loss through wheat rust. A start in the breeding of rust resistant wheats was made in 1925, and the scientific research bore fruits in 1933.

Some four years later, he continued, rust resistant wheats had been widely disseminated and last year there was practically no loss from wheat rust of the type which was such a menace in 1916.

Mr. Connors said that there was a constant race between the work of the scientific agriculturists and the menace of new plant diseases, insects and always encroaching weeds. This was illustrated, he said, in a new blight on oats, first found at Ottawa and now in all provinces except Alberta. It attacked the Beacon and Garry varieties of oats. There was an urgent need to develop new varieties which were blight resistant, he added.

For the first time, declared Mr. Connors, a great chemical attack was being made against weeds. There were now effective chemicals, he said, as well as technically trained men to use them. Insects were a constant menace, and were imperilling great sections of Canadian forests and agricultural areas. Constant vigilance and an increased amount of research were needed, he warned, as well as readiness on the part of farmers to use all the aids which scientific agriculture could develop.
